

TO&E

PLA STEEL GUARD PLATOON

Borrowing the technological exploits of their Soviet comrades, the PLA have adapted the Steel Guard armored combat suits to their own needs on the battlefield. With the expansion of the Mythos forces across the globe and the rise of the IJN to the east, the veterans of the PLA find themselves called upon more and more to defend their interests.

Given the attrition rate among PLA volunteers, there is no shortage of soldiers ready to don the armor of the Steel Guard.

PLATOON ADVANTAGE: ARMADA

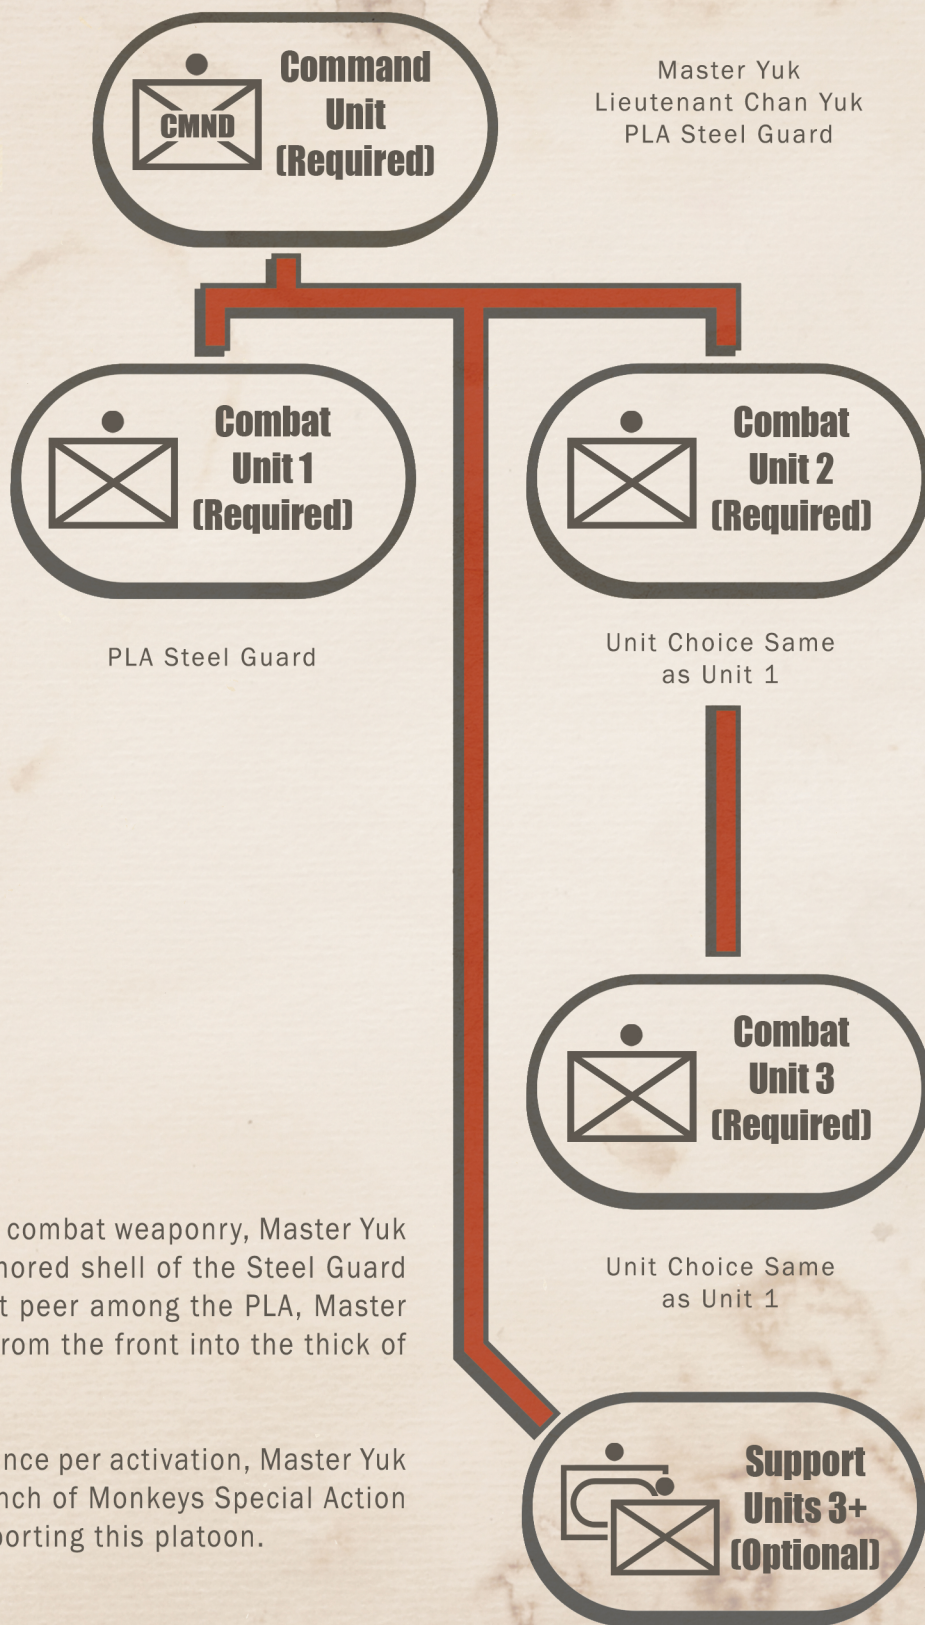

A master of both ranged and close combat weaponry, Master Yuk has turned fighting within the armored shell of the Steel Guard into an art form. A warrior without peer among the PLA, Master Yuk leads his fellow Steel Guard from the front into the thick of battle.

Master Yuk gains the Loner skill. Once per activation, Master Yuk can perform a Get Moving You Bunch of Monkeys Special Action on any PLA Steel Guard in or supporting this platoon.

SUPPORT UNITS

Like their Soviet bretheren, the PLA Steel Guard are the hammer of the PLA army meant to smash their enemies flat. Given their relatively slow movement speed, the PLA Steel Guard are best supported on the flanks by the rank and file infantry of the PLA where their numbers can fill the gaps in the Steel Guard advance.

When advancing into the teeth of the enemy, the PLA Steel Guard often call upon mobile armor such as the PT-47E to deter any aerial attack on their position.

Master Yuk
Lieutenant Chan Yuk
PLA Steel Guard

